U. D. C. Has Luncheon

At Country Club

The Pat Cierburne Chapter of the U. D. C. met at the Hope Country club Thursday at 12:30 for a covered dish luncheon with Mrs. A. E. Shusser, Mrs. J. W. Branch and Mrs. Emmet Thompson as hostesses.

The Club room was beautifully decorated with early fall flowers, gold and brown predominating. The centerpiece of the buffet table was a clever arrangement of fruit and evergreens.

Guests were seated at quartet tables whose decorations were in Thanksgiving motif.

After luncheon there was a short business session and program, preceded by invocation by Mrs. H. J. F. Garrett. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. C. S. Lortorpe, president. Mrs. A. E. Shusser gave the ritual and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Pat Casey.

The program was in charge of Mrs. J. W. Branch. Mrs. H. C. Whitworth gave an interesting talk about David Owen Dodd.

At this meeting the resignation of Mrs. J. M. O'Neill as 3rd Vice President was accepted with regret.

There were 30 members present and one guest, Mrs. A. C. Sutton.

10th Graders Study About Occupation

(Editors Note: Members of the 10th grade Occupation Class, under direction of Horace Hubbard, write weekly themes in connection with their studies. The best is selected and printed. This week's selection was written by Sue Smiley.)

Your Occupation and You

Your occupation is a very important thing in your life. It is your means of livelihood. It is your means of showing the world that you are a responsible citizen.

Your occupation is your choice of all the many jobs in the United States. It is based on what you think you are the best suited for. To find the right occupation for oneself is a difficult job, but to know what one is best suited for is still a bigger job. Many people rush into jobs head first. These jobs usually turn out to be "blind alley" jobs—that is to say, jobs for which a person is not at all suited. For these people it means only to start over. Let's not be one of those people.

Some people seem to think that all you have to do to get a job is to go through the want ad section of the paper, find something you think you might like to do, and go try it. These people soon find out differently.

A person, while he is still in high school, should start thinking what he would like to do. He hasn't as much time as he thinks he has. If a person starts thinking about a job while he is still in high school, he can take courses that will help him later. Courses taken in high school can be a way of telling a person what he likes and dislikes. Likes and dislikes play a big part in occupations. Since your occupation will take a great deal of your time, it must be something you must want to do.

Those who now hold jobs know how important it is to pick the right job. So please, if you are trying to decide on something to do, don't do just anything. Pick your job with care.

To You, your occupation is important. Choose it with care.

Zany Comedy Is Saenger Feature

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, screwball comedy par excellence have been battling a thousand ever since they teamed up for a night club act four years ago. And according to advance raves they are even bigger and better in "My Friend Irma Goes West," the Hal Wallis comedy coming Sun-Mon to the Saenger Theatre, than they were in their fabulous screen debut in "My Friend Irma."

The way they got together was a stroke of inspired coincidence. Lewis was doing a solo in a night club when another act failed turn up at show time. He urged the desperate club owner to allow Dean Martin to Martin, known only as a singer at the time, bluffed his way through as a comic and the team has been at it ever since.

From that accidental beginning until the present, Martin and Lewis have skyrocketed in nightclubbing, on the air, as stage attractions, and as movie stars.

They perform so smoothly as a team that their technique defies description. Everything they do has a spontaneous quality as if they make up their act as they go along. In many cases this is true. They work within a flexible framework—one which allows them to do just about anything that comes into their heads. Their unflinching sense of judgement gives whatever they do a professional veneer that cannot be topped. The result is that these comics are at the head of the list of new comedy favorites.

Paramount Pictures and producer Wallis have many more plans for these incredibly funny guys and it is certain that they are destined for greater fame than they have already achieved. It couldn't happen to two nicer people.

4-H Club Youths Are Honored at State Meet

Little Rock, Nov. 3 —(P)—Four young Arkansians, ranging in age from 16 to 20, have been named state 4-H club champions in leadership and achievement. They'll represent Arkansas at the national 4-H camp in Washington next June.

The winners, announced at the annual 4-H congress dinner here last night, are:

DOROTHY DIX

Bored Wife

Dear Dorothy Dix: From my high school days until I married I always worked as a secretary to men doing interesting and exciting work. I kept my job after I married until my baby came, and then my husband insisted that I give up my work and stay at home and take care of the child. Instead of hiring someone else to do it, I agree that it is for the best interest of the child and for four years I have done so, but I have such periods of rebellion and boredom at the confinement and monotony of housework that I think sometimes I can't stand it. And how I miss the contacts of the business world and my own money, the ability to buy things when I want them and lack of good clothes! I am getting a definite inferior feeling with it all. A child is sweet, and I love mine, but it does seem as though a woman has to make such a tremendous sacrifice and adjustment when she gives up business just to be a wife and mother.

Answer: The trouble with us women is that we can't have our cake and eat it too. While men can. If that is one of the great injustices of sex, it is one that Nature imposes upon us, and there is nothing we can do about it.

Man Can Do Both

When a man marries he simply adds the comforts of a home, the society of a wife, the happiness of having the children to the joy and independence, and interest and excitement he gets out of his career. But wives and careers do not mix. No woman can turn out a really first-class job in either if she is trying to do both. Especially can no woman be a good mother unless she gives her personal attention to her children. No professional tenderness is like that of a mother. No expert can pinch-hit for even

U. S. Speeding Special Atom Weapons

By ELTON C. FAY.

Washington, Nov. 3 —(P)— The United States appears to be hastening toward production of specialized atomic weapons and special tactics for use if the Russians should attempt to invade Western Europe.

Without making it clear whether such weapons and tactics already exist in preliminary form, the air force said in a semi-annual departmental report released last night that it is "taking necessary action to develop further its capability to support the ground forces with atomic weapons."

And the army, in its report, said that new systems for guided missiles, recoilless weapons "and the family of atomic weapons are designed or being designed for use by our army."

The atomic weapons family obviously includes, besides the explosive bombs themselves, such things as radiological equipment for poisoning areas.

These broad hints contained in the reports of the armed forces took on added significance when related to two other recent developments:

1. The current effort of the North Atlantic treaty organization nations to provide military systems that can cope with 175 Russian army divisions. Numerically, that is far more strength than the pact nations expect to have ready by 1953 when the plan calls for about 40 divisions on the central front of Europe.

2. A statement a few months ago by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, that the atomic bomb can be used as a tactical, as well as strategic weapon.

The tactic Bradley conceived was this: If enough ground forces can be mustered to man natural barriers, like rivers or mountain chains, they can compel any invader of Western Europe to funnel his attacks through certain corridors. There will be the target for atomic attack on the invading troops. Concentrated, compressed into relatively small zones, enemy divisions then become a "profit-heart ne'er won fair lady."

Dear Dorothy Dix: You say not to nag, but what do you suggest doing to a husband who has not learned the simplest laws of hygiene, who bolts his food, eats too much and drinks to excess? I love my husband and want to keep him in good health, so I have to be forever after him.

A WORRIED HENPECKER

Answer: Nagging would be justified if it ever did any good. But it doesn't. It is one of the things that loses force with repetition. If you correct your husband's table manners once it may make some impression upon him. If you hammer at the way he uses his fork at every meal he makes up his mind he won't be badgered into changing his method of handling it.

Rain, Cold Spells Warm Weather

By The Associated Press

A mid-autumn warm spell, had disappeared over most of the nation today, blasted out of the weather picture by a mass of cool air from Canada.

There was much rain and some snow along with the cool breezes to put a wet blanket over the Indian summer setting.

The cool air extended from the northern Rockies to the north Atlantic States, the central plains, the Ohio and Tennessee valleys, and the Great Lakes region. The mercury dropped below freezing in some midwest areas.

Snow mixed with rain fell in southwestern Iowa and northwestern Missouri. Rain fell over parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The cool air moved into the East after another day of record-breaking temperatures in many cities yesterday. Readings were in the 80's. They got into the 90's in southern California and Arizona; 40 degree mark in many of the central states.

Dollars Alone Can't Make Army — South Koreans Have Demonstrated That

AL BOYLE
The Army Headquarters, Seoul, Korea, says that the South Koreans alone cannot make an army. Dollars alone cannot make an army. More than 100,000 South Koreans are being trained by the U. S. Army to rebuild the republic of Korea. The Koreans, who were first to reach the parallel line to open this war, are now being trained in military circles to write the South Korean army and make it an independent one. But the Koreans are stubbornly refusing to accept a real fighting force. And the tough little wily Koreans were first to reach the parallel line to open this war. The South Korean government is not accepting this battle. But Lt. Col. W. L. Hain, U. S. Army, says the world has yet to realize just how much the patriotic South Koreans did to help themselves.

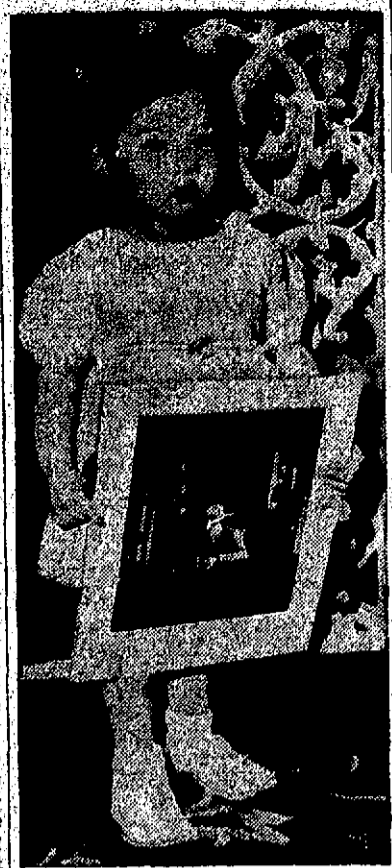

"These people are just beginning to find they can do great things," he said. "They have been led around and kicked around for too long like children."

"With some leadership and some technical advice and training, the Koreans can quickly show great progress and results in almost any field of endeavor."

Rune has had an inside view of what the Korean army has accomplished. He has been Korean military advisor group (KMAC) officer here 10 months. Recently he was officially commended by the ROK department of national defense for his work as senior American military advisor to the ROK headquarters.

Each day he and Lt. Col. Yun Soo-Hyun, the ROK quartermaster, thresh out the problem of supplying, feeding and equipping the far reaching and mushrooming South Korean army. They work at adding desks and have developed a feeling of mutual respect and personal liking.

"Colonel Yun has one of the quickest minds I have ever met,"

said Runge.

When war started, he observed, the ROK quartermaster corps was manufacturing 85 per cent of quartermaster supplies used by the Korean army. He added:

"But the withdrawal was so violent and rapid the men could bring back only themselves and their hand weapons. Great stores of winter clothing were lost."

However, rear area troops went up the road of retreat.

They braved small arms fire to salvage nearly 500,000 bags of rice, barley and wheat and many carloads of sugar, tobacco, cotton, wool and other items that would have been of great value to the enemy if captured.

Driven within a few weeks into a beachhead only one-seventh of the area of South Korea, the ROK managed to recruit, feed and train more than 1,000 new troops a day.

"The American army supplied them with boots, ponchos, field jackets, helmets and canteens," Runge said.

"But in the first two months of the war, the ROK quartermaster corps made over 200,000 fatigue suits, 200,000 rubber-soled shoes, 250,000 sets of underwear, 200 fatigue caps and 350,000 pairs of socks."

"All of this was made in only two cities — Taegu and Pusan."

"The ROK" now are busily completing manufacture of new cotton-quilted winter uniforms for the troops.

"But the country isn't advanced enough industrially to solve the greatest shortage — transportation vehicles," Runge said.

"They have taken every available civilian vehicle and are buying all the trucks from Japan they can get — but it still isn't enough."

Puerto Rico Voted Against Independence

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 3 — (AP) — How screwy can it get?

Two Puerto Ricans, who want their country independent of the United States, try to shoot their way in to kill President Truman.

Such an assassination might have focused attention on Puerto Rico. It could not have won independence for it.

In fact, it might have prevented independence for Puerto Rico. An angered United States might have resolved to hold more firmly to possession of the island.

But — it's not the President, it's the majority of Puerto Rican voters who only recently showed they don't want their country independent — yet.

In fact, five years ago President Truman urged congress to pass legislation letting the Puerto Rican voters who only recently showed they don't want their country independent — yet.

In fact, five years ago President Truman urged congress to pass legislation letting the Puerto Ricans be independent if they wished.

Since then two congresses — one Republican, one Democratic — have passed laws letting Puerto Rico be more independent than ever before.

Again, when he was in Puerto Rico in 1948, Mr. Truman told the islanders they had the right to choose their own relationship to the U. S.

And in that same year, in their most recent election, a good majority — 62 per cent — of the Puerto Rican voters elected a party which campaigned against independence for the island.

This is the story.

In 1898, when this country won the war with Spain, the latter ceded Puerto Rico to the United States.

That island in the Caribbean had been a Spanish possession for centuries. The Spaniards had exploited the people, keeping them poor and ignorant.

Congress very quickly passed a law under which — with some recent changes — Puerto Rico has been run by the U. S. ever since.

Under U. S. control the people of the island have made big progress although perhaps much less than they should have.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt favored independence for the people there, if they wanted it. And in 1945 Mr. Truman recommended to congress that it take steps to find out whether the Puerto Ricans wanted:

(1) Complete independence; (2) the election of their own governor, with a (3) measure of local government; (4) statehood; and (4) a territorial form of government.

Congress didn't take the steps to let the people of Puerto Rico choose independence for themselves. But in 1948 the Republican congress changed the law to let the Puerto Ricans choose their own governor.

(Until this law of 1948 the President, under the old law, appointed the governor; commissioner of education, attorney general, auditor, and justices of the Supreme court.)

Under the 1948 law the President now appoints only the auditor and the justices of the Supreme court. Puerto Rico has its own legislature: A senate and house, although the island still is under U. S. control.

When the Puerto Ricans voted in 1948 to elect their own governor there were three Puerto Rican parties in the contest: One campaigned on a full independence ticket; the second wanted statehood; and the third wanted the island to stay as it was — a U. S. possession — for some time.

This third party — headed by Munoz Marin, long time political boss of the island — won. Marin was elected governor. This is the stand Marin took and on which he was elected to a four-year term over his rivals:

"Stupid insistence on establishing on a piece of paper at once and in a crazy manner the word independence or the word statehood would be a disaster."

"We do not produce enough now to sustain the life of the people, if we should have to pay dozens of millions of dollars to the customs collector of the U. S. to be independent or to the treasurer of the U. S. to be a state. When we produce enough to sustain life and make these payments, then Puerto Rico can decide."

Puerto Ricans are U. S. citizens. The U. S., through various agencies, regularly pours millions of dollars into Puerto Rico, whose principal crop is sugar.

This year the Democratic congress took a couple more steps for the Puerto Ricans: It said they could set up their own constitution — which they are in the process of doing — and it admitted them to the benefits of the social security law.

Marin's term is up in 1952, when the Puerto Ricans again vote for a governor and can express themselves on independence.

Marin's government says the Nationalist party — which is a fanatical independence group and to which Wednesday's two assassins belonged — numbers only 1,500 out of Puerto Rico's total population of 2,200,000.

A wealthy man, intent on matrimony, told his friend one day that he was 60 and asked: "Would it be better if I told a young lady whom I'd like to marry that I'm only 50?"

"I'll be perfectly frank with you," his friend replied. "Your chances would be better if you'd tell her you were 75."

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 3 — (AP) — One of four Memphis men accused of selling football betting cards was fined $51 in city court today on charges of possessing gambling paraphernalia.

Three companions forfeited $151 each on this count plus additional charges of loitering and being suspicious persons. The quartet was arrested in a crackdown on the distribution of cards sent here from Dallas and Chicago, police said.

Judge Carl N. Stokes fined Terry G. Wildman, 36, after the defendant admitted receiving the cards but denied intentions of using them. Charges of being a suspicious person and loitering were dismissed.

Those forfeiting bonds were Edward Lee Parker, 37, Gerald T. Antwine, 39, and James F. Webb, 43.

Police Commissioner Claude Armour said he understood the cards were being passed out in colleges and high schools here and in Arkansas and Mississippi.

India Angry About Tibet Invasion

Indian anger at Communist China's invasion of Tibet mounted today, while Moscow boasted that the Red attack on the ancient, rugged land was developing successfully.

The Indian government — a champion of Communist China's admission to the United Nations — published texts of notes to Peiping accusing the Reds of greatly increasing the "drift towards general war."

At the same time India's Socialist party leader urged that the United Nations at once take over Tibetan affairs and conduct a plebiscite there to determine the future of the priest-ruled country often referred to as "the roof of the world."

India's representative at Lhasa, capital of Tibet, has advised the new Delhi government that Tibetan forces have fallen back to Pampa Go, 200 miles east of the capital. A Chinese broadcast said Red troops were "heroically overcoming all geographical difficulties" on the march to the heart of Tibet, but did not give the invaders' position. Peiping — and Moscow, too — claimed the troops were being welcomed everywhere by the Tibetan people.

Moscow's Communist party newspaper, Pravda, published a dispatch telling of the capture of Chamdo, a center on the main caravan route 370 air miles east of Lhasa. It said two British and two Indian officers were among the Chamdo garrison when it was taken prisoner.

India's latest note to Peiping, dated Oct. 31, accused the Chinese Reds of attempting to impose a decision by military force against a peaceful people and without provocation.

India said that in view of the developments, its government no longer would advise the Tibetan delegation now in India to proceed to Peiping to negotiate with the Chinese, "unless the Chinese government thinks it fit to order its troops to halt their advance into Tibet and thus give a chance for peaceful negotiations."

Actually the invasion has been underway since Oct. 7, according to an official Czechoslovak news agency dispatch published in Prague last night.

Truman Likely to Have Big Audience

By JACK BELL

Washington, Nov. 3 — (AP) — President Truman seemed assured today of the largest American radio and television audience in political history for his St. Louis campaign speech tomorrow night.

The Democratic national committee came up with an estimate that 68,500,000 citizens — roughly 44 per cent of the population — will tune in on about 1,000 radio and 72 television stations to hear the President urge election of a Democratic congress.

The committee is laying out about $100,000 for the hookup.

Republican national committee aides discounted the Democratic estimate, commenting that Saturday night isn't the best radio listening time. But they conceded that Wednesday's Blair House assassination attempt has whetted interest in hearing the President.

For their answer to Mr. Truman — to be given by Harold E. Stassen — only on the Mutual radio network from New Haven, Conn., immediately after the President concludes — the Republicans could count on an audience probably only one fourth as big. Stassen's talk will be broadcast by 521 stations.

The President's St. Louis speech will provide most Americans their first opportunity to hear the President since two Puerto Ricans tried to storm Blair House and kill him.

The intense interest aroused by this incident was indicated when Mr. Truman walked into a packed news conference room yesterday and was greeted with applause by the 192 standing reporters.

With a grin, Mr. Truman said he wasn't running for anything, but that applause would have been welcome in 1948.

His mood became serious, however, when he said he was never in danger, adding that it was terrible that a secret service guard had been killed and other wounded in something that was so unnecessary and need never have happened.

The President alternated between cheerfulness over Democratic prospects in next Tuesday's congressional elections and a critical mood toward some newspapers.

He kept up his appearance of being wholly confident that the Democrats will sweep to victory in the Tuesday voting.

He hadn't changed his mind or his predictions of such a Democratic sweep, Mr. Truman said, adding that things are getting better all the time for his party.

A guest finally said good night. "I hope I haven't kept you up too late," he added.

"Oh, not at all," replied the polite host. "We would have been getting up soon anyway."
